Defense Chiefs Confer With President Today

WASHINGTON, March 22

(AP)—President Eisenhower will confer at the White House tomorrow with a group of top defense officials, the chief of the Central Intelligence Agency and the Under Secretary of State.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, declined to say why the meeting was to be held.

"Other than it being on the schedule, that is all I am going to say about it," Mr. Hagerty declared.

Scheduled to attend are Charles E. Wilson, Secretary of Defense; Allen Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency; Herbert Hoover Jr., Under Secretary of State; Donald A. Quarles, Air Force Secretary; Admiral Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force Chief of Staff.
